Telecommunication

Academic Advising

If you are a freshman or sophomore majoring in telecommunication, you should visit the College's Office for Undergraduate Affairs in 1000 Weimer to be advised. Appointments are not necessary.

If you are a junior or senior, you are assigned to a faculty adviser depending on your specialization. You may also request a specific advisor, and you may change advisors. A list of Faculty Advisers is available below.

The Advising and Registration Process

See an Adviser!!!!

There are many rules, policies and procedures at UF that can make it harder than necessary to register, to get into the classes you need, and to complete your degree requirements.

See an Adviser!!!!

Your academic adviser can help you through the process.

Ultimately you are responsible for completing your degree. But we can help you avoid the mistakes that can lengthen your time at UF, and that can add to your stress.

See an Adviser!!!!

Remember, if we make a mistake,
we'll fix it. If you make a mistake without consulting an adviser ahead of time, you are on your own.

Never take advice from another student about degree requirements !!

Never take advice from another student about degree requirements !!

Depending on your major, your track, and when you started at UF, your degree requirements may be different from other students.

The right answer about degree requirements for them...may be the wrong answer for you!

The Advising Process at UF

- Students who have not yet completed 60 hours normally are advised by the College's Undergraduate Affairs staff and/or the department chair
- Since coursework before 60 hours is primarily general education, if you have questions about general ed requirements, contact Undergraduate Affairs (1000 Weimer)
- Questions about Foreign language or quantitative option, Gordon rule, pre-professional courses can best be answered by Undergraduate Affairs

The Advising Process at UF

- At 60 hours we assign students to faculty advisors. In Telecommunication we assign by specialty (News, Production, Management, Media and Society)
- Students may request a particular faculty member as their advisor
- Advisor lists and contact information are on the department website
- If you want a dual major, one must be outside the College of Journalism and Communications, and must be approved by both departments and both Colleges

The Advising Process at UF

- Each semester students receive a tracking report, which indicates which course requirements have been completed, and which need to be completed
- Certain benchmarks have been established—certain courses must be completed by a specific semester. Students who are “off-track” may need to see an advisor before being allowed to register

The Advising Process at UF

- Students normally complete the department, College or University requirements in place *when they entered the University of Florida
- Your advisor may be required to sign certain forms—for example, RTV 4905 Individual Work.

Some Registration Issues

- You are given an “appointment” date and time for registration—it is critical that you do not miss your appointment.
- Students can register themselves on ISIS
- We don’t see the same ISIS screens as students, so if you encounter a problem, and contact the office, please be clear in describing the problem

Some Registration Issues

- We cannot register you for courses outside the Telecommunication Dept.
- Courses in the major cannot be taken S/U unless that is the course policy (e.g. internships)

Some Registration Issues

- You must remove all holds before registering: financial, emergency contact information, etc. We cannot remove those holds.

Some Registration Issues

- Occasionally you may be prevented from registering for a course because you are currently enrolled in the pre-requisite, or a course that you took elsewhere is not recognized. If you encounter this problem, contact the department office

Some Registration Issues

- Summer Courses:
 - The summer schedule is posted online in February. However, it is highly tentative until well into the Spring
 - Summer course scheduling is based on
 - Availability of instructors
 - Financial Resources

Drops

- You may change your schedule without penalty each semester until the end of drop-add (end of first week of courses)
- After drop-add you may drop a total of two courses during your first 60 hours and final 60 hours

Drops

- To drop a course after drop/add go to Weimer 1000
- You may be responsible for some or all fees/tuition for a dropped course
- With permission you can add a course after the drop/add period

“Section not Available”

If you try to register for a course and get a message saying that a section isn't available, or isn't being offered, or it doesn't show up at all, it may mean one of two things:

- The class is full
- The course is departmentally controlled and you need to contact the Telecom Dept. office

Part 2

Degree Requirements

“General” Requirements

- Outside Concentration or Minor
 - Provide students with a concentrated experience in an area to support their professional or personal goals
 - Common choices in News: History, Political Science, Economics, Business, Sports Management
 - Common choices in Production: Business, Sports Management, English, Film Studies, Theater
 - Management students must use Business as the outside concentration

“General” Requirements

- Outside Concentration or Minor
 - College requires 12 hours in a field outside of Journalism and Communications
 - At least nine of those hours must be 3000 or above
 - No other course specifications
 - Students must inform Undergraduate Affairs of their outside concentration

“General” Requirements

- Outside Concentration or Minor
 - A minor is usually 15 or more hours
 - Usually specifies which courses
 - Requires permission of the specific department to be admitted as a minor
 - Not all departments offer a minor

Foreign Language/Quantitative Option

- 2 semesters of University-level foreign language
- One or both semesters can be met by exam
 - You must contact the specific language department for this

Or

Foreign Language/Quantitative Option

Or

- 3 courses selected from various
Accounting, Statistics, Computer Science
(listed on tracking sheet)

Electives

- All courses that are not required for the specific degree are considered electives
- Electives can be from any discipline, although we prefer they be in Telecom or at least in the College
- However students must have 72 of their hours outside the College

Transfer Credits

- Normally the University will accept no more than 64 transfer credits
- Credit for specific transfer courses are approved by the Registrar or by the department, depending on the nature of the course
- Professional courses (e.g., Hands-on Production or News courses) normally must be completed at UF

Part 3

Telecommunication Department Requirements

Telecommunication Tracks (Specializations)

- Management: This track prepares students for entry-level positions in such areas as sales, research, promotion, audience research, program strategies.
- Media & Society: This track prepares students who want a strong foundation in communication skills and are interested in studying media (both traditional and social media) and its effect on society, but don't necessarily aspire to a career focused on print or broadcast journalism, advertising or public relations. This could include students who want strong communication and analytical skills to prepare them for law school, graduate study or who aspire to careers in areas such as sports, health, environment, politics or the corporate world.

Telecommunication Tracks (Specializations)

- News: This track has two specializations: Reporting and Producing. Reporters cover breaking and pre-planned events, and may also serve as anchors. Producers work behind the scenes and are responsible for entire programs, or segments of those programs. Entry into the news sequence is limited, and is based on the results of a competitive writing examination. We currently admit 30 students per semester into the news sequence.
- Production: This track prepares students for positions in the creative aspects of electronic media, including writing, directing, producing, and editing. Our focus is on the leadership and management of the production process, rather than equipment operation.

Pre-Requisites for Telecom Courses

- Be sure you are familiar with the pre-requisites and sequences of courses:
 - A grade of C or better is required in RTV 3007 and RTV 2100 as a pre-requisite to all Telecommunication courses except RTV 3405
 - RTV 3303 (grade of C or better) is a pre-requisite for all News courses

Pre-Requisites for Telecom Courses

- Production courses must be taken in sequence—3200-3320-4929c
- Students may take RTV 3101 concurrently with 3200
or 3320

Pre-Requisites for Telecom Courses

- 4929c can be taken more than once if the subject area is different. Some topics may require permission of the instructor
- RTV 4506 (Telecom Research) is a pre-requisite to RTV 4800 (Planning and Operations). 4506 is only offered in the Fall. 4800 is only offered in the Spring.

Core Course Requirements

All Tracks

- RTV 2100 - Writing for Electronic Media

A pre-professional course designed to provide fundamental instruction and practice in writing for the electronic media.

Advisory Council

<http://www.jou.ufl.edu/academic/telecom/advisory.asp>

<http://www.facebook.com/UFTAC>

<https://twitter.com/#!/uftac>

- The Advisory Council is composed of more than 20 professionals, most of whom are graduates of the University of Florida
- The Spring meeting will be February 28-March 1, 2013

Advisory Council

- Students of all tracks and regardless of year are encouraged to participate in activities such as 1-on-1 advising, take-a-member-to-lunch, and Rapid Fire
- Watch for posters, sign-up tables and e-mails for more information

Internships

<http://www.jou.ufl.edu/academic/telecom/internships/>

- Students must complete an internship application with the department.
- Internships can be for 1-3 credits. Each credit requires 100 hours of work during the semester
- No more than 6 total credits of internship from any college or university may apply towards the 124 hours of credit

Internships

- Students may do more than one internship
- We send a letter to the internship site informing them that a student will be eligible to receive credit.
- Students must complete monthly reports, a final report, and are evaluated by their supervisor
- Internships are S/U

Internships

- We maintain information about where previous students had internships; the Knight Center can also provide information
- Department internship rules, procedures, and forms are available at :
