COURSE DESCRIPTION

While plenty of time is spent working on the reporting of sports scores and news, there is an area of sports journalism that has long gotten too little attention: Political and social issues.

In the last year, of course, this has changed dramatically as the social conscience of people in sports has become suddenly awakened. More and more athletes and sports figures are engaging on these issues – be it through social or traditional media – and there is a wealth of opportunity for media figures who understand how to engage.

This course will prepare future journalists to engage on these “tough” issues and more.

These issues include:

- Racism
- Sexism
- Homophobia & Transphobia
- Ableism
- Religion
- Class & Social status
- Domestic violence
- Sexual abuse
- Drug use

The course is conducted online through a weekly Canvas hangout (or other online meeting system) Wednesdays from 12:50pmET-1:40pmET. An online forum where the class can engage in discussion of hot news items and reporting methods may also be used.

| Classes will feature discussion about various topics including:

- Morals and ethics of reporting opinions of sports figures
- How to ask the tough questions
- When is it appropriate to engage
- Tips and tricks on getting what you want when they don't want to give it

- Disconnecting your reporting from your personal opinion
- Using sports media to advance a social cause
- Can you be a reporter and a columnist
- Using social media and other venues to expand your public persona

Guests will join the class throughout the semester and offer a wide range of perspectives. Some of them may include:

- Former professional athletes
- Social-justice activists
- Current sports journalists
- Sports agents
- League representatives

CANVAS HANGOUT AND DISCUSSION FORUM LOGINS

The class will be held weekly in a Canvas hangout (or similar platform). I will send the link to the class via email before every Wednesday by 12:30pmET, 20 minutes before the class begins. Class attendees must be logged in by the beginning of class – tardiness is not acceptable. You can log in via your mobile phone or computer.

Discussion-forum information will be distributed as soon as it is available.

GRADING & EVALUATION

Grading of stories will take into account various components, including but not limited to quality of writing, copy editing, use of sources, pertinence of sources and quotes, originality and creativity, relation to the assignment, depth of discussion of social issue, etc....

Letter grades will be given to each story:

A = Outstanding work that demonstrates originality, excellent story structure, engages the reader in unique perspective and meets professional publishing standards.

B = Good work but still needs additional revising; achieves the objectives but lacks some elements that would make it an outstanding piece.

C = Acceptable but requires significant revising; story meets minimum requirements but may have problems with story structure, with appeal to target audience, lacking originality or advancement of the conversation or issue.

D = Unsatisfactory; work does not display a grasp of basic writing skills; story has significant problems with structure and mechanics or appeal to target audience; Does not satisfy the assignment.

F = Unacceptable; story has flaws in research, structure, basic reporting, writing elements, and comprehension of target audience. (Any plagiarism or falsification of information earns an F and a failing grade for the course.)

Students are encouraged to turn in a “first draft” of their story (could be a full draft, partial draft or outline) before the final due date. Anyone who turns it in five days ahead of the due date will receive within 48 hours a cursory review of the piece with limited notes about direction, sources and overall quality.

Grading scale used for overall course grade / stories:

A 100.00-93.00 / 95
A- 92.99-90.00 / 92
B+ 89.99-87.00 / 88
B 86.00-83.00 / 85
B- 82.99-80.00 / 82
C+ 79.99-77.00 / 78
C 76.99- 73.00 / 75
C- 72.99-70.00 / 72
D+ 69.99-67.00 / 68
D 66.99-63.00 / 65
D- 62.99-60.00 / 62
F 59.99 and below / 0-50

If the submission does not meet the minimum requirements of the assignment, it is subject to a numerical grade of zero.

Grades for the course will be weighted as follows:

Attendance – 15%

Given the limited scope of the reading and writing mandated for the class, attendance for discussion is particularly important. Missing this many classes will get you this percentage of the possible points for Attendance & Participation:

| 0-1 unexcused absences: 100%
2: 90%
3: 80%
4-5: 50%
6-7: 25%
| 8+: 0%

Excused absences must be cleared before class. Potential reasons may include (and may require an email or note from doctor or official):

- Religious holiday observance

- Doctor-excused illness
- Jury duty
- Military service
- Death in the family
- Participations as athlete, coach or media member in live sporting event

Participation – 15%

Discussion and participation during class (and within the online forum if available) is an important part of learning and will be incorporated in the grade.

Contributes proactively to class conversations on a weekly basis – 100%

Contributes only occasionally to class conversations – 50%

Rarely contributes proactively to class conversations – 0%

Reading and analysis assignments due Feb. 7 & April 4 – 20%

Two times there will be specific reading assignments that require some written analysis, not expected to exceed 400 words apiece. These will be assigned six days before they are due. Each assignment is worth 10% of the grade. That 10% will be assigned based on the above letter-grading scale.

Interview story due Feb. 28 – 20%

Single-source story in which you interview one and only one sports figure about their thoughts on an issue of current interest and pertinence. Sports figure must be an active athlete or coach in NCAA Div. 1, NFL, NBA, MLB, NHL, MLS, PGA, LPGA, ATP, WTA, NASCAR, WNBA or the Olympics. Current or former Univ. of Florida sports figures are excluded. Source should have a direct link to the issue at hand. Must be 700-900 words.

Final Story due May 1 – 30%

A feature-length story that explores in depth the impact of a broader social, political or cultural issue in sports. Story must include at least three different sources including at least one from the sports world, be they athletes, coaches, executives, administrators, agents, etc.... Examples of possible stories could include the reaction in the sports world to the kneeling for the National Anthem, the future of female coaches in the NFL or why more lesbian women's basketball coaches are not publicly out. Story pitch must be accepted by April 9. Must be 1,200-1,500 words.

OTHER IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Academic integrity

UF students live by an honor code that prohibits academic dishonesty such as (but not limited to) cheating, plagiarism, fabrication, engaging in unauthorized collaboration, reusing a paper from another class, writing a similar paper for two classes, and having someone else write your paper or do your class projects <http://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code>.

If you use someone else's words, image(s), artwork or video, permission must be obtained in writing (i.e. email) from an author/publisher and submitted to the professor along with your project (though quoting from another media source must simply be sourced in the article). You must abide by the university's honor code as well as the Department of Journalism's policy on academic honesty found at <http://www.jou.ufl.edu/academic/jou/honesty/>.

Students with disabilities

Students requesting accommodations must first register with the Dean of Students Office. The office will provide documentation to the student, who must then provide this documentation to the instructor when making a request for accommodations. I am more than happy to work with anyone needing such accommodations, but please do not wait until the last minute to request accommodations, see me as soon as possible.

Grading policies

All information related to grading can be found in UF's undergraduate catalog: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/grades.aspx>
