SEMINAR GOALS:

This is a seminar designed to study and critique the public relations ethics and social responsibility practiced in organizations around the world. The seminar will focus on different ethical and social responsibility models and their effects on organizations and organizational stakeholders. The class will have two components: 1) We will be reading and critiquing classic work and current research in public relations ethics and social responsibility. 2) Each seminar member will develop his or her own public relations ethics case study or research paper designed to further understanding of ethics and social responsibility.

COURSE OUTCOMES:

Students in the seminar will be able to:

1. Remember and recall theories of ethics and social responsibility as well as laws and regulations that pertain to the ethical practice of public relations.
2. Understand and interpret how the values of truth, honesty, accuracy, fairness and diversity must be imbued in public relations practices.
3. Analyze problems in public relations ethics.
4. Appreciate and evaluate different viewpoints in the ethical practice of public relations.
5. Plan and create appropriate codes of ethics and programs of social responsibility for organizations.

COURSE PROCESS:

During weeks 4 - 9 of the course, designated seminar members with the assistance of the instructor will identify readings appropriate to the week's topic, notify other seminar members what they should read for the week, and co-lead a discussion on the readings. Following that discussion in the weekly seminar, the seminar co-leaders will post their PowerPoint presentation materials on the class website on Canvas.

As a parallel process, seminar members will be developing a case study on an event that led to a public relations ethical concern for a particular organization or a research paper. Students will need to have the organization and the public relations ethical issue (or research question) approved by the instructor during the second week of classes. The requirements for the case study will be presented as the seminar progresses.

COURSE EXPECTATIONS:

Seminar members are expected to subscribe to the Corporate Social Responsibility Web site at <http://www.mallenbaker.net/csr> and the Corporate Social Responsibility Newswire Service at <http://www.csrwire.com>. You are also expected to monitor #CSR or the CSRbot on Twitter, as well as the LinkedIn CSR groups for current discussions of CSR issues. Any posting the seminar members make on #CSR should also be forwarded to the course instructor and will count as part of the class participation grade.

During the week that you are a seminar leader or co-leader, with the professor's help you are expected to identify readings for the class, lead a discussion on those readings, and submit a PowerPoint presentation for feedback from the seminar members and the professor. All seminar members are expected to read the assigned materials before the class meets and be prepared to discuss the readings assigned for the week. Students will be graded on in-class discussion and participation.

Attendance: This is a graduate seminar and you are expected to attend every class. (Because we meet only once a week, missing one entire class is the equivalent of missing an entire week.) For each absence beyond one, you will lose 5 of the 100 points for the class (1/2 a letter grade).

Deadlines: You are expected to meet all deadlines. For any deadline missed, you will lose five of the 100 points for the class for each 24 hours your work is late.

Grading:

Seminar Readings Co-Leader Presentation	15%
Introduction of Ethics Case Study/Research	10%
Attendance	10%
Seminar Participation	20%
Ethics Case Study/Research Oral Presentation	20%
Ethics Case Study Report/Research Paper	25%

University Academic Honesty Policy:

“All students are required to abide by the Academic Honesty Guidelines which have been accepted by the University. (1) Each student is required to subscribe to the Guidelines upon registration each semester by signing the following pledge which is contained on the "Course Request Registration Form": I understand that the University of Florida expects its students to be honest in all of their academic work. I agree to adhere to this commitment to academic honesty and understand that my failure to comply with this commitment may result in disciplinary action, up to and including expulsion from the University. (2) The conduct set forth hereinafter constitutes a violation of the Academic Honesty Guidelines. Those adjudged to have committed such conduct shall be subject to the sanctions provided in 6CI-4.016. (a) Cheating -- the improper taking or tendering of any information or material which shall be used to determine academic credit. Taking of information includes, but is not limited to, copying graded homework assignments from another student; working together with another individual(s) on a take-home test or homework when not specifically permitted by the teacher; looking or attempting to look at another student's paper during an examination; looking or attempting to look at text or notes during an examination when not permitted. Tendering of information includes, but is not limited to, giving your work to another student to be used or copied; giving someone answers to exam questions either when the exam is being given or after having taken an exam; giving or selling a term paper or other written materials to another student; sharing information on a graded assignment.

Plagiarism -- The attempt to represent the work of another as the product of one's own thought, whether the other's work is published or unpublished, or simply the work of a fellow student. Plagiarism includes, but is not limited to, quoting oral or written materials without citation on an exam, term paper, homework, or other written materials or oral presentations for an academic requirement; submitting a paper which was purchased from a term paper service as your own work; submitting anyone else's paper as your own work.

Bribery -- The offering, giving, receiving or soliciting of any materials, items or services of value to gain academic advantage for yourself or another.

Misrepresentation -- Any act or omission with intent to deceive a teacher for academic advantage. Misrepresentation includes using computer programs generated by another and handing it in as your own work unless expressly allowed by the teacher; lying to a teacher to increase your grade; lying or misrepresenting facts when confronted with an allegation of academic dishonesty.

Conspiracy -- The planning or acting with one or more persons to commit any form of academic dishonesty to gain academic advantage for yourself or another.

Fabrication -- The use of invented or fabricated information, or the falsification of research or other findings with the intent to deceive for academic or professional advantage.
