

MMC LAW OF MASS COMMUNICATION

Fall 2019

INSTRUCTOR: Steven Specht, Esq.

NOTE: This syllabus is a guideline. The professor may make changes from time to time and will announce them via email.

OFFICE HOURS AND COMMUNICATION: Because this is a virtual course, a dedicated office time can be unwieldy. Please consider the course to have a virtual open-door policy. Reach out to as necessary and you will receive a timely response. If there is an issue that requires immediate attention, please text or call. If your issue is less urgent, please use the canvas messaging system.

TEACHING PHILOSOPHY: My goal is to bring the same level of excitement to the Law of Mass Communication that I felt in August 2005 as I entered my final semester at the UF College of Journalism and Communication. Whether you are going to work in journalism, advertising, a courtroom, or somewhere else entirely, the critical thinking tools and exposure to the legal system you have in this course should guide you in future dealings.

REQUIRED TEXT: Mass Media Law by Clay Calvert, Dan V. Kozlowski, and Derigan Silver 20th Edition

(You may also use the Nineteenth Edition which is substantially similar).

You may use an online or physical version of the textbook.

OTHER RESOURCES: Bluebook citations are preferred but not required. This will be discussed in the first week. Please use this free resource for most citations.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: Per the Course Catalogue “Understanding the law, which guarantees and protects the privileges and defines the responsibilities of the mass media. Includes problems of constitutional law, libel, privacy and governmental regulations.”

PREREQUISITE KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS: You have to be a junior to take this course, but I anticipate that most of you will be seniors. I expect a level of professionalism and skill commensurate with your experience in university.

PURPOSE OF COURSE: This course will explain our legal system, the protections and limitations of First Amendment Freedoms, and the place of media professionals within that framework. This course will rely heavily on constitutional law but also some statutory interpretation. With a knowledge of the law, you will be better prepared in your future professional endeavors.

COURSE GOALS AND OR OBJECTIVES: By the end of this course, students will:

- Know their rights and responsibilities in accordance with media law.
- Know the constitutional law relevant to these rights and responsibilities

- Be able to engage in basic legal analysis
- Be able to apply this knowledge to real-life situations

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS: The course will consist of reading assignments, quizzes, lectures, and written assignments.

ATTENDANCE: As this is an online course, attendance will be marked by participation in discussion boards and other weekly assignments.

DEADLINES: All listed deadlines are based on the Eastern Time Zone. I will have zero tolerance for late assignments due to foreseeable events. The sole exceptions to this are an illness that extends five days in duration and technical issues with the course website. I respect that there are life events, health issues, family concerns, and a host of other reasons why an assignment might be late. However, deadlines are laid out ahead of time and there is ample time to plan ahead. Whether you wind up as an attorney, journalist, or something else, you will find my deadline to be one similar to those you will face after graduation.

For technical issues with the website, you must receive a ticket number from the UF Computing Help Desk when the problem was reported. The ticket number will document the time and date of your issue. This ticket number must be emailed to me within 24 hours of the issue for you to make up a late assignment due to a technical issue.

CONTENT: From time to time we will discuss issues that involve profanity, disrespectful language, sex, and the like. It is necessary to have these discussions to understand our legal system. If you take issue with any of the above, please take it up with James Madison, John Jay, Alexander Hamilton, and Thomas Jefferson.

However, discussion of sensitive subjects does not excuse disrespect to other students. I'm fine with attacking ideas, but keep away from ad hominem attacks.

CLASS PARTICIPATION: I don't offer a specific percentage of my grade for participation, but the small amount of writing assignments are easy to complete and require minimal effort. They take up 10 percent of the grade.

UF POLICIES

UNIVERSITY POLICY ON ACCOMODATING STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: Students requesting accommodation for disabilities must first register with the Dean of Students Office: <https://www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/>. The Dean of Students Office will provide documentation to the student who must then provide this documentation to the instructor when requesting accommodation. You must submit this documentation prior to submitting assignments or taking the quizzes or exams. Accommodations are not retroactive; therefore, students should contact the office as soon as possible in the term for which they are seeking accommodations.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT: I will have a zero-tolerance policy for academic misconduct. Do your own work.

Hint: I also have access to the internet and I know a copy-paste when I see it.

Read the Student Honor Code: <https://www.dso.ufl.edu/scsr/process/student---conduct---honor---code/>

Read this information on plagiarism: <https://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/589/01/>

NETIQUETTE: As noted in the previous section, I expect common courtesy in emails and discussions. An inability to maintain respect and decorum in all class-related communication will affect your DB grade.

ASSIGNMENTS:

READING ASSIGNMENTS: Reading the textbook will give you a broader understanding of the subject. You will need this information to do well on the final project.

DISCUSSION BOARD POSTS and WRITING ASSIGNMENTS: I use Discussion Board Posts to discuss current events. They are graded as a writing assignment. You are responsible for reviewing the current events of your classmates as there will be some current event questions on the midterm and final quiz. All writing assignments (including these current events in DB Posts need to be in a paragraph format with some form of citation. If using an online source, I prefer at least a hyperlink.

QUIZZES: There are two open-book/notes quizzes to be completed, one halfway through the course, and the other toward the end of the semester. The final quiz is not cumulative, by this I mean that if I tested you in the midterm, I will not deliberately place redundant material on the final quiz. The quizzes will be 30 minutes in duration and cannot be stopped once you begin. The quizzes are mostly multiple choice.

FINAL PROJECT: The final project will be an analysis of a legal issue pertaining to the First Amendment Law we discuss in this class. You may discuss historical issues or emerging events.

You may do a traditional term paper consisting of an 8-10-page paper. If you are in advertising, broadcasting, public relations, or some other major and wish to do a multimedia project, you may present your idea for approval.

We live in interesting times as the issue of unfettered anonymous speech and foreign incitement have had an effect on our institutions. Novel presentation and creative legal analysis will reflect well in your final grade.

You must have sufficient citations to support your original work.

Project Timeline

Idea Deadline: I want your project ideas by Sunday, October 27, 2019. This assignment will consist of 100 words about your subject. You can change your idea as we progress through the semester, but you need to have something down in writing by this time. You should consider skimming upcoming coursework for more ideas.

Citation List: A preliminary list of citations RELEVANT TO YOUR PROJECT will be due Sunday, November 3, 2019. The minimum requirement is five court cases and two news articles.

First Submission: Your first draft is due Sunday, November 17, 2019. This is an ungraded and optional assignment. I will briefly skim your draft and provide you limited feedback. I HIGHLY RECOMMEND YOU PARTICIPATE.

Final Draft: Your final draft will be due Wednesday, December 4, 2019.

If you are writing a traditional term paper, I expect 8-10 pages of double-spaced, Times New Roman, Size 12. The format of this paper will consist of identifying the current issue. Outlining the history that brings us to the present, an opinion on how things should be and a prediction of how a court will view the issue. Citations, excessive white space, and cover pages do not apply to the 8-10 pages.

If you are engaging in some sort of other project, you must still make explicit reference to five court cases and two news articles.
