Requisite Skills for this Course

You should be prepared to 1) manage academic responsibilities and meet deadlines on the Canvas online course management system, 2) employ analytical skills in the evaluation of situations and content presented in course lectures and readings, 3) articulate these thoughts and ideas clearly in writing, including online forums, and 4) justify/defend your own perspectives as well as argue on behalf of perspectives that potentially run counter to your position about strategic endeavors.

Course Goals

The goal of this course is to provide students with the fundamental skills needed to devise and present a complete marketing communications plan. The student learning outcomes for the course will be introduced and/or reinforced through regular opportunities that reinforce skills in critical thinking, problem-solving, oral and written communication, and peer collaboration. Skills emphasized during this course are:

- The application of reading/articulating written and verbal information about marketing and advertising situations
- The ability to employ decision-making skills (i.e., evaluate, justify, and defend) in the analysis and evaluation of strategic alternatives
- Written and verbal communication skills necessary to brief strategic planning partners (e.g., client, agency team, promotions specialists) about planning decisions.

Final grades are calculated at the end of the semester based on the student's accumulated points relative to the base of points offered during the semester. Until the conclusion of the term, points are the sole indicator of how a student is progressing relative to the base of points allocated to date. There is no grade, despite Canvas calculations.

Grades will be allocated based on an individual's calculated percent-of-base with final grades guided by the University's standards for grade distribution. Students who earn a C or better will fulfill pass requirement for ADV3001.

Assignments

To fully comprehend the process of strategic planning, students must have the opportunity to apply the skills learned in the course. The quality of one's experience in this course can be attributed, in part, to his or her level of involvement in the learning process. Therefore, students are expected (and encouraged) to be part of the learning process through regular and consistent participation.

Assigned readings and/or out-of-class assignments prior to the lecture date are meant to lay the foundation for a more robust exchange of ideas during the class meeting time. Student preparedness is essential to the success of this goal because it enriches the individual's quality of inquiry about the subject matter. As such, the instructor recommends that students complete the review of assigned materials BEFORE the class meeting in which the topic will be reviewed.

Students should be prepared to contribute views and explanations to topics covered. Skills development opportunities, such as the digital journal, mini-group assignments, and individual writing assignments, are intended to help students become more proficient in mastering the concepts and application of the strategic advertising development process. Students should expect skills-based demonstrations to be issued regularly.

Written assignments will be submitted through Canvas and should adhere to the specifications detailed in the "format for written assignments" section of this syllabus. All assignments are expected to be submitted by the designated due date to avoid point reduction or point forfeiture.

Group Projects

The goals of project assignments are to give students a basic understanding of: 1) the process involved in conducting a strategic analysis, 2) how a consumer-focused integrated brand communications strategy is developed, and 3) how strategic decisions are communicated to staff and line functions of the agency team. Both mini- and comprehensive project assignments will provide a foundation for immersion and the development of skills needed to translate conceptual ideas to actionable marketing communication strategies.

Quizzes

Quizzes are intended to be short-form, low-stakes assessments that gauge the student's knowledge and understanding of the topics examined in class. The assessment content covers topics addressed in class discussion, main ideas covered in the textbook or lecture, and concepts illustrated via class "clinicals," in-class exercises, or by way of individual homework assignments. Quizzes also build from knowledge that students are expected to have acquired from course prerequisites, such as ADV3008 and MAR3023.

Quizzes will be administered via CANVAS on a weekly schedule, and contain approximately 10-20 questions. Students must take the quiz within the designated due date to avoid forfeiting the quiz opportunity. Students are allowed only one attempt per Canvas quiz. Each quiz is timed and will automatically close at the end of the allotted minutes.

Information tested is cumulative up to the quiz date, so students can best prepare for the quizzes by attending class, being an active participant with both course readings and class discussions, and by seeking regular opportunities to "translate" what is introduced during class time to "real world" examples outside of class.

Group Project

Groups will be asked to deliver a formal presentation at the end of the semester as a formality to the reporting process. This is consistent with expectations of the industry and allows students the chance to receive mentoring and feedback on presentation style. Individual scores for the team presentation will be assigned according to overall team presentation quality and clarity of information delivered in context with the strategy assignment. A rubric will be provided for each project to clarify the instructor's expectations.

Attendance (via ZOOM live lectures)

Class Attendance will be taken online during live lectures. You MUST log in to ZOOM and utilize the "join video" feature to receive credit for attendance. Our class days of lectures will be on Mondays and Tuesdays 11:00AM EST to 12:15PM EST for the entire summer session.

Each student is allowed two "free" missed classes (for live lecture days) without penalty to the final attendance point total. Keep in mind that the free absences do not automatically excuse the student from assignment due dates, point awarded for in-class participation, or other point-based activities. Routine unexcused absences over the two-missed-class minimum will result in a loss of one-half point per absence and may directly affect the student's grade. This does not apply, however, to excused absences due to activities sponsored by Ad Society, CJC organizations or that require student participation in official University business. See the section below for an understanding about the instructor's policy for excused absences and personal emergencies.

Late Policy

Unless you notify me in advance and have a documented reason for why you cannot complete an assignment in a timely way, and with the exception of factors listed at the UF link below, late submissions on homework, exams, and quizzes will not be accepted. To see exceptions to the rule stated above, please see requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work here: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx>
