Course Text: None – Readings available online

Overview

We live in a world of rapid technological innovation. This innovation has allowed significant changes in the ways that we communicate and interact with forms of media. In fact, the technologies related to communication have created a culture surrounding how we see, hear, read and use information, and have significantly impacted politics, economics, policy, etc. This course studies the impacts of communication technology on individuals and society, and the impact that society has on these technologies. It examines current issues related to the diffusion of new technologies, as well as the obstacles to widespread use of individual communication technologies. Students in this course will analyze the various theories related to the use of emerging communications forms, and consider the factors related to successful technological deployment. Students will be required to look beyond “good/bad” classification of new communication technology, and conduct in-depth interrogations of tech and the issues that surround it.

Course Learning Objectives

Students successfully completing the course will be able to:

- Describe major developments in the social history of communication technologies and their social/cultural consequences.
- Identify major information and communication-related ethical and social issues in contemporary society, and describe the various perspectives that characterize current debates on those issues.

- Discuss the development of the "information society" as distinguished from previous historical eras and formations, the views on its prevalence and significance, and its social, cultural and institutional manifestations.
- Describe and discuss the various theories related to various communication technologies and be able to recognize the influence of these theories in current debates and discussions.
- Examine new technology and forecast possible impacts on society and the concomitant impact that society may have on the new technology.
- Communicate their ideas about technology using multiple modes of communication including, written, oral, visual, and group communication styles.

Some Rules

1. Professionalism

Respect your classmates, their work and their views. Be polite, professional and respectful when expressing yourself. In addition, I believe part of my job is to get you as ready for the professional industry as possible. Not following basic instructions disqualifies anyone from jobs, so, to get you ready for these expectations, you will have to follow every single instruction on any given assignment. Failure to do so will result in an automatic 20% deduction (of the maximum number of points possible) the first time, 50% the second time and 100% any time after that. Detailed instructions for all assignments are available on Canvas.

2. Preparation

As the old adage goes, "by failing to prepare, you are preparing to fail," so do the required reading and listen to the lectures before completing any assignment, story or project. Ask questions if you have any doubts. I check my emails and texts way more than recommended by mental health professionals. I will always get back to you as soon as I can. If I seem to have forgotten for whatever reason (it doesn't happen often, but it might), message me again. You are not bugging me by staying on top of things. However: If you have a question about an assignment, don't text me at the last minute and expect an answer right away/before the deadline. I may be sleeping or showering at that time. I may use technology in unhealthy fashion (or so they say), but I am still a human being.

3. Deadlines

Remember there's a reason "DEAD" makes up half the word "deadline." All deadlines are firm, especially in the media industry. You are responsible for turning in all assignments, stories and projects on the date and time they are due. If you want to get ahead, you are welcome to. I will always try to provide feedback in a timely manner.

Exceptions may be made for extraordinary circumstances if you notify me before the due date. I am available by email, text, or call (almost) on a daily basis, please reach out!

4. Feedback

Your work may be critiqued by your peers. While this can be uncomfortable, it is much better to get such criticism in class than from Internet trolls. Of course, refer to rule #1 when you are doing the critiquing.

5. Course Content

In the interest of honest and frank discussions, all materials I post on Canvas or other instructing tools (lectures, comments of guest speakers, discussion boards) are strictly off the record. This means that they may not be published in any format, either in a print publication or on a web site, personal blog or social media.

6. Honor Code

All students are expected to follow the University of Florida Honor Code. The full text of the Honor Code can be found on the Dean of Students Office's website. Any violation of the academic integrity expected will result in a minimum academic sanction of a grade of zero on the appropriate assignment, and the student being reported to the journalism department. Note that plagiarism specifically is unforgivable in journalism. It essentially ends a journalist's career.

7. Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, <https://disability.ufl.edu>) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter that must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this process as early as possible in the semester.

8. Course Evaluations

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course based on a minimum of 10 criteria. These evaluations are conducted online at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. They typically open during the last three weeks of the semester. Announcements will be made giving specific times when they are open. Summary results are available at the URL above.

Course Grading

You will be graded in accordance with UF policies out of 600 points:

Evaluation Components	Note	Points Per Component	% of Total Grade
Syntheses (4)	You may turn in a fifth to replace a grade if you wish. If you do, the lowest of the five grades will be dropped.	50 points each = 200 points total	33%

Class Participation (13)	You will receive a grade out of 5 each week. All absences will result in a grade of zero in this category. The lowest three grades (of 13) will be dropped.	5 points each = 50 points total	8%
Discussion Leadership (1)	-	100 points	17%
Project/Presentation (1)	-	250 points	42%
Total	-	600 pts	100%

Syntheses

You will complete four (4) syntheses of the readings in connection to a new communications technology of your choice. Each synthesis should be comparable to 2-3 double-spaced pages of text. Responses should critically reflect on the readings of the week the work is turned in and incorporate topics of the prior weeks as appropriate. In any given week, syntheses should be turned in before the start of class (e.g., if you are synthesizing the readings of week 4, you must turn in your work by 5:10 p.m. on Thursday that week).

You may seek to incorporate the tools of whatever platform you choose into your responses, i.e. gifs, music, animations, etc.

You may choose the weeks you wish to respond, however at least two syntheses must be turned in during the first seven weeks.

Synthesis grades will be based on:

1. Primary response
 - Content/substance
 - Support from readings and beyond
 - Analysis (connect evidence to argument/points being made)
2. Structure and Mechanics
 - Word count
 - Intelligibility
 - Organization
3. Creativity
 - Use of whatever platform chosen

Class Participation

Participation is not simply attending class. You are expected to fully participate in class. This means having completed all assigned readings prior to class and arriving prepared to discuss the topics for that class period. All students participating in class discussions are expected to provide relevant discussion insight, be respectful of other classmates and their opinions and share any relevant personal experience that may add to the topic at hand. As such, you should think of 1-2 discussion questions based on the readings for the week.

Discussion Leadership

As discussion leader to one class period your task is to present a recent case/situation/issue relevant to the class topic for the week. You will sign up for your week on Canvas during the first week of classes. The following guidelines are offered to help you in your role as class discussion leader. You should begin to prepare for this assignment as soon as you can.

1. Inform the professor at least two weeks prior to your discussion date, the current situation you would like to discuss and how it relates to the class.
2. Read the texts assigned on the syllabus. But note: you are not teaching the material read. Instead you are relating your case to what was read.
3. Organize and prepare your presentation/discussion. You may use whatever multimedia you choose, i.e. Prezi, PowerPoint, etc.
4. You will be graded on the relevance of the situation/case you chose to discuss to the overall topic for the day, connecting the situation and the topic for the week, and your ability to lead/spark discussion on the situation.

Project/Presentation

In the beginning of the semester, you will choose a new communications technology to examine. This research will culminate in both a paper or online project (website, video, podcast, etc.) and a visual and oral presentation of analysis to the class. This project will require the synthesis of class readings, discussions, and outside research to analyze possible impacts the new comm tech could have on society, and how members of society may, in turn, impact that tech. All students must do a visual presentation. You have the choice of writing a paper or creating an interactive representation of your analysis using one or more communications technology discussed in class, and have the opportunity to decide which new medium you choose to analyze. Good resources from which to find about new technology include:

- Wired
- Tech Crunch
- CNet News
- Zdnet
- Gizmodo
- The New Scientist
- OneZero
- MIT Tech Review

Final grades will be calculated with the following table:

		550-600 points	A	540-549 points	A-
520-539 points	B+	500-519 points	B	480-499 points	B-
460-479 points	C+	440-459 points	C	420-439 points	C-
400-419 points	D+	380-399 points	D	360-379 points	D-
359 points and under	F
