Course Description & Prerequisites

Effective communication is the accelerant on the fire of social change. Public interest communications is a form of strategic communication through which organizations take on specific communication objectives that will have a benefit to society. This benefit transcends the particular interest of any single organization undertaking a campaign or communications effort.

The skills and qualities of those who work in public interest communications are not unlike those of people who work in public relations. In fact, the fields differ more in purpose than in form: while public relations tends to take on the interests of a single corporation or entity, public interest communications tends to take on causes that affect the health, safety, and well-being of a community or population.

Public interest communications is a large, complex, and interdisciplinary field. This course will focus on providing an introduction to the principles and fundamentals of this emerging discipline.

By the end of the semester, students will understand the foundations of the evolving field that is public interest communications through the analysis and evaluation of the six spheres through which we can drive social change, the strategic planning process for effective social change communications campaigns, and the tools, qualities, and tactics that utilize a unique approach beyond regular communications that make these campaigns powerful.

Course Pre-Requisites / Co-Requisites

No prerequisites

Credit Hours: 3

Course Delivery Mode & Time Commitment

Each week, you will be expected to participate in weekly online forums. For some weeks, you will need to be the discussion leader. Discussion leader posts will be submitted every Wednesday. Regular class participation will be due every Friday. And discussion leader responses to classmates need to be completed by that Sunday.

We will also have one synchronous meeting where everyone will have an opportunity to discuss their final project ideas and get feedback from me and the rest of the class. I will send out a doodle poll later in the semester to gauge the best meeting time for everyone.

This is a fully online course and you must log into Canvas with your Gatorlink username and password to access the materials and assignments. The course is organized into modules with due dates. Unless otherwise specified, each module begins on Monday at 12:00 AM, ET, and ends on Sunday at 11:59 PM, ET. The course begins with the Course Orientation (START HERE) Module, which will familiarize you with the course.

Time Commitment

Expect to spend between 10 to 20 hours per week, per course, watching or attending lectures, reading, working on assignments and projects, and engaging in discussions.

Course Grading Policies

Grading Criterion, Late Assignment Policy, and Expectations for Assignments

GRADING CRITERION

Discussion Boards (20%)

Each week one student will be assigned to lead the class discussion. These discussion leaders will be asked to post a current campaign or news story that they think is related to PIC. In the post, leaders will be expected to analyze why they believe the campaign or event is an example of PIC and provide evidence using class content from the current week or past weeks to support their view. Students will be expected to be discussion leaders once throughout the semester. On weeks that students are not discussion leaders, they will be expected to comment on the leaders' post. Leaders for the week will then be expected to respond to their classmates' comments (facilitate online discussion). For some weeks, you may also be asked to participate in a Discussion Activity. You will need to provide a short answer related to the prompt due Friday (midnight) of that week. Peer comments will not be required for the Discussion Activity assignments but are encouraged.

One-on-one check in with professor (5%)

Midway through the semester, students will need to set up a one on one meeting with Dr. Snyder. The purpose of this meeting is to not only check in on class progress, but ensure that they are appropriately planning for the campaign analysis. The conversation will be short, but still necessary.

Twitter (5%)

In addition to creating a LinkedIn profiles, students will also be required to establish a professional Twitter presence. Twitter is an important tool for PIC practitioners in that it helps individual's network but also build credibility in the field. During the LinkedIn check-in at the beginning of the semester, students will also be expected to follow the instructor and the five PIC contacts from LinkedIn. Students will also need to follow at least ten PIC-based organizations (a list of potential organizations will be included with the assignment description). For each module, students will then need to tweet about the topic. For examples, if a student is reading New Power, they could tweet about a section they found interesting or a direct quote that included the author's Twitter handle.

Book Review (15%)

Midway through the semester students will be asked to select a book from a proposed reading list to read and evaluate. Students will be expected to write a brief synopsis detailing why the book is related to PIC and then develop a brief PIC campaign surrounding the issues discussed in the book. This assignment will also serve to reinforce the power of stories and how they are effective strategic communications tools. Given that students in the class are coming from diverse backgrounds, in addition to the proposed books (which focuses on topics of education, race, and inequality), students will also be able to propose their own books for approval if there are other PIC topics that may interest them.

Film or Podcast Review (15%)

After the module about media, one of the six spheres through which we drive change, students will write their own review of a film (documentary or feature) or podcast season based on what they learned through the Blackfish example discussed in class. Students will specifically focus on how the media can be used to effectively drive change. The assignment will consist of a short 3-5-page paper that gives a summary of the film or podcast, how it's related to PIC, and how the documentary/podcast engages storytelling.

Quizzes (10%)

The quizzes will be low-stakes assignments designed to assess students' understanding of the reading materials and guest speakers.

Campaign Analysis/Critique (30%)

For the final assessment, students will be asked to explore a social issue that matters to them. They will then need to identify an organization whose work is related to the desired issue and find a related campaign to analyze and critique using the skills developed in class. Students will be expected to explore the context, audience, message, and strategy of the campaign and present the information as an issue brief.

Expectations for Writing Assignments: Writing Style

In order to meet the academic rigor and standards of a graduate program, all students are required to use the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA) 7th Edition style in their courses. The APA 7th Edition Manual has a plethora of guidelines that includes scholarly writing, publishing principles, elements and format for your papers, writing style and grammar, bias-free language guidelines, mechanics of style, in-text citing and references, etc. For additional information on notable changes, see changes between APA 6th Edition and APA 7th Edition.

Your grade will be calculated based on the following: Your grade will be calculated based on the following:

The only passing grades for graduate students are A, A-, B+, B, B-, C+, C, and S. Grades of B-, C+ or C count toward a graduate degree if an equal number of credits in courses numbered 5000 or higher have been earned with grades of B+, A- and A, respectively. Grade points are not given for S and U grades; S and U grades are not used to calculate grade point averages. All letter-graded courses eligible to count toward the graduate degree, except 1000- and 2000-level courses, are used to calculate the cumulative grade-point average. Letter grades of C-, D+, D, D- or E are not considered passing at the graduate level, although the grade points associated with these letter grades are included in grade point average calculations. See the UF grading policy for more information.

LATE ASSIGNMENT POLICY

Late assignments will not be accepted unless it is a University excused absence as stated in the attendance policies. No late work will be accepted for final projects or work due in the final week of class due to the university grading deadlines. If potential issues arise concerning submitting final work, students should contact their instructors before deadlines to discuss the possibility of an Incomplete Grade Contract.

1. Late Assignment Grade Reductions
 - a. 0-24 Hours Late: 10% reduction in grade.
 - b. Over 24 Hours (24 hours and 1 minute) to 7 Calendar Days Late: 20% reduction in grade.

Academic Integrity Policy

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code.”

The Student Honor Code, Violation of the Student Honor Code, specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to the appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TA’s in this class.

Netiquette

Casual style of communication is commonly found in the online environment and students are sometimes tempted to relax their grammar, word choice, syntax (arrangement of words to create well-formed sentences), writing mechanics (capitalization, punctuation, and spelling), and/or professionalism. Keep in mind when communicating with others to be courteous, civil, respectful, and professional. Please remember that you are adult students and professionals—your communication must be appropriate.

Online Attendance Policy

Since the course is online, you should access your course at least four times per week to ensure you do not miss pertinent postings, messages, or announcements. It is imperative that you meet course deadlines and stay active in discussion boards, group projects, etc. If you are experiencing a major illness, absences due to University duties, or other large-scale issues, contact the instructor immediately.

Students are responsible for meeting all academic objectives as defined by the instructor. In general, acceptable reasons for absences include illness, serious family emergencies, special curricular requirements, military obligation, severe weather conditions, religious holidays, and participation in official University activities. Absences from class for court-imposed legal obligations (e.g., jury duty or subpoena) must be excused. Excused absences must be consistent with university policies in the Graduate Catalog and require appropriate documentation. For additional information, see the attendance policies.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is unacceptable; especially, in the academic communities. All academic work must be an original work of your own thought, research, or self-expression. Plagiarism includes, but is not limited to, prohibited collaboration, consultation, submission of academic work that has been purchased or obtained (see the UF Policy: Student Conduct Violation). Remember that plagiarism is not acceptable in any of your work including all discussion board posts, journal entries, wikis, and other written and oral presentation assignments. Always cite your sources!

Software Use

All faculty, staff, and students of the University are required and expected to obey the laws and legal agreements governing software use. Failure to do so can lead to monetary damages and/or criminal penalties for the individual violator. Because such violations are also against University policies and rules, disciplinary action will be taken as appropriate. We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to uphold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity.
