Overview

RTV 3593 is designed to offer instruction, analysis and training in sports information gathering and research, writing, interviewing and reporting in a digital age. Special emphasis is placed on improving sports writing skills and reporting judgement, research and analysis of sports events and issues, basic sports production, radio reporting assignments and generation of sports content for the Internet. In addition, students receive practical experience in the Innovation News Center and WRUF-ESPN AM 850-FM 98.1 in the College of Journalism and Communications.

Course Learning Objectives

The overall objective for this class is for you to learn how to function as a sports journalist in 2022 and beyond. As such, after successful completion of this course, you should have:

- (1) developed skills to effectively research, gather and analyze sports information;
- (2) learned to write high-quality sports stories (news & features) – this includes learning about sources needed for sports research and honing your interviewing skills;
- (3) an enhanced understanding of (a) UF, local, high school, national and international sports, and (b) the ethics and values of sports journalism;
- (4) published on WRUF-ESPN AM 850/FM 93.5 or had stories included in The Orange and Blue Sports Report;
- (5) enhanced skill in voicing work, live and recorded, on-the-air;

Some Rules

1. Professionalism

Respect your classmates, their work and their views. Be polite, professional and respectful when expressing yourself. In addition, I believe part of my job is to get you as ready for the professional industry as possible. Not following basic instructions disqualifies anyone from jobs, so, to get you ready for these expectations, you will have to follow every single instruction on any given assignment. Failure to do so will result in an automatic 20% deduction (of the maximum number of points possible) the first time, 50% the second time and 100% any time after that. Detailed instructions for all assignments are available on Canvas.

2. Preparation

As the old adage goes, “by failing to prepare, you are preparing to fail,” so do the required reading and listen to the lectures before completing any assignment, story or project. Ask questions if you have any doubts. I check my emails and texts way more than recommended by mental health professionals. I will always get back to you as soon as I can. If I seem to have forgotten for whatever reason (it doesn’t happen often, but it might), message me again. You are not bugging me by staying on top of things. However: If you have a question about an assignment, don’t text me at the last minute and expect an answer right away/before the deadline. I may be sleeping or showering at that time. I may use technology in unhealthy fashion (or so they say), but I am still a human being.

3. Deadlines

Remember there’s a reason “DEAD” makes up half the word “deadline.” All deadlines are firm, especially in the media industry. You are responsible for turning in all assignments, stories and projects on the date and time they are due. If you want to get ahead, you are welcome to. I will always try to provide feedback in a timely manner.

Exceptions may be made for extraordinary circumstances if you notify me before the due date. I am available for calls (almost) on a daily basis, please reach out!

4. Feedback

Some assignments will be discussed as a class, so your work may be critiqued by your peers. While this can be uncomfortable, it is much better to get such criticism in class than from Internet trolls. Of course, refer to rule #1 when you are doing the critiquing.

5. Course Content

In the interest of honest and frank discussions, all materials I post on Canvas or other instructing tools (lectures, comments of guest speakers, discussion boards) are strictly off the record. This means that they may not be published in any format, either in a print publication or on a web site, personal blog or social media.

6. Engagement

My role is akin to that of a coach. You are the players, the main actors of this course. Get involved!

7. Honor Code

All students are expected to follow the University of Florida Honor Code. The full text of the Honor Code can be found on the Dean of Students Office's website. Any violation of the academic integrity expected will result in a minimum academic sanction of a grade of zero on the appropriate assignment, and the student being reported to the journalism department. Note that plagiarism specifically is unforgivable in journalism. It essentially ends a journalist's career.

8. Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, <https://disability.ufl.edu>) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter that must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this process as early as possible in the semester.

9. Course Evaluations

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course based on a minimum of 10 criteria. These evaluations are conducted online at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. They typically open during the last three weeks of the semester. Announcements will be made giving specific times when they are open. Summary results are available at the URL above.

Lab

In this course, students receive professional training and experience each week in the Innovation News Center, either through ESPN Gainesville/WRUF-AM ESPN 850 studios or through CJC's new sportscast, The Orange and Blue Sports Report. This experience may include all or some of the following: research, writing web stories, writing and recording radio sports updates, operating the audio control board, covering events such as press conferences and sports competitions, filming, editing, etc.

This is a critical component of the course and the evaluation of the effectiveness of this training experience will comprise 33% of the final grade. The lab requires presence in the INC once a week. If you need accommodations, please let me know the first week of class.

If you choose ESPN Gainesville, Steve Russell, Sports Director for the multimedia properties, will assign the shifts. If you choose the sportscast, your shift will be on Tuesday morning. Regardless of the option you choose, you must cover your shift each week: show up on time and dressed appropriately. Indeed, there is a professional dress code for the INC where you represent the properties, the College and the University of Florida. Closed toed shoes and collared shirts are required. Neutral colors are required for sports journalism students, meaning no orange or blue or UF attire. Athletic wear, hats, sleeveless shirts and flip-flops are not allowed.
