General Class Policies

Cellphone: Silence your phone or turn it to airplane mode prior to entering the class.

Late Assignments –Unexcused late class assignments or projects will be penalized 10% of the assigned marks each day. However, a student who presents the instructor with a documented (i.e., written and verifiable, not oral) reason for an absence normally within a week will be given an opportunity to make up the work missed if this is feasible.

Make-up exam –A student who missed an exam must present the instructor with a documented (i.e., written and verifiable, not oral) reason for an absence normally within a week and will be given an opportunity to make up the exam missed if this is feasible.

Incompletes – No incomplete grades will be issued except in extraordinary and well-documented circumstances.

Formal Course Assessment: How You'll Know You're Learning

1. Reflection Posts: (20 points)

You will complete 5 reflection posts on the Course Canvas Page throughout the semester. These reflection posts are based on assigned readings on different advertising research methods.

Your posts will be evaluated on a 10-point scale (0 for poor, 10 for excellent), based on the following:

- Student ability to summarize the key ideas from the assigned reading.
- Student ability to raise questions on the assigned reading.

Note: Your weekly reflection post should contain at least 150 words (if you are an undergraduate student) or at least 300 words (if you are a graduate student).

2. Assignments (40 points)

There will be four team-based assignments throughout the semester. Therefore, it is important for students to come to class on a regular basis.

Assignment 1: group presentation on social listening results (due date: January 31) (10 points)

Assignment 2: group presentation on focus group results (due date: February 21) (10 points)

Assignment 3: group presentation on survey results (due date: February 21) (10 points)

Assignment 4: group presentation on experimental design (due date: February 21) (10 points)

Grading will be based on:

- 1) Team ability to present sufficient research results to support claims.
- 2) Team ability to organize information in an efficient and a story-telling way.
- 3) Team ability to generate creative visuals.
- 4) Team ability to deliver effective oral presentation.

3. Class Discussion (10 points)

In light of the diverse research methods covered in this course, your active participation in discussions is crucial. You are encouraged to complete all in-class exercises during class hours and to come prepared to contribute meaningfully to class discussions.

Grading will be based on:

Your participation in class discussions will be evaluated by the instructor during lecture weeks on a 10-point scale, with 0 indicating no participation and 10 representing the most active participation. This evaluation will be based on three main criteria:

1. Active participation in reading/exercise discussions as well as discussions on course topics.
2. Responding to questions posed by the instructor or classmates.
3. Raising questions about the readings and course topics during class.

4. Final Project (40 points)

Overview

This project involves a short study on the role of generative AI in advertising. Students will explore the use of generative AI for creating or enhancing advertising content and its potential impact.

Objectives

Understand basic applications of AI in advertising.

Analyze how AI might influence advertising effectiveness.

Project Requirements

Research Question: Formulate a simple question about AI's role in advertising. Example: "How can generative AI improve ad personalization?"

Brief Literature Review: Conduct a quick review (1-2 pages) of online articles or papers on generative AI in advertising.

Case Study Analysis: Select a single case study of generative AI use in an advertising campaign. Summarize the campaign and discuss generative AI's role.

Consumer Insights: Conduct a short survey or informal interviews (3-5 people) to gauge consumer opinions on generative AI in ads. Alternatively, analyze online reviews or comments on an AI-generated ad campaign.

Presentation: Create group presentation to summarize your findings.

Grading will be based on:

- 1) student ability to present a main thesis in a clear manner.
- 2) student ability to present sufficient research results to support claims.
- 3) student ability to organize information in an efficient and a story-telling way.
- 4) student ability to generate creative visuals.
- 5) student ability to deliver effective oral presentation.

5. Peer Evaluation

You will be evaluated three times during the semester by your team members. This is not a popularity rating but rather an objective evaluation of the commitment and quality of your efforts and contributions as seen by your team members. An average for all evaluations over the course of the semester will be computed for each team member. The evaluation form will be provided at the appropriate time. All evaluations are strictly confidential.

Your average team evaluation at the end of the semester will be used to adjust the amount of team points which you will receive as follows:

Your average evaluation for semester	Your percent of team points received
90% or above	Full points (100%)
85% to 89%	90%
80% to 84%	70%
70% to 79%	50%
69% or below	10%

For example, imagine your team performs at an extraordinary level, receiving the maximum number of team points for the semester (60 points). Also assume that your team felt that you did not make a major contribution, and as a result, your average team evaluation is 81%. You personally would receive 42 points ($60 * 70\%$) for all the team-based assessments. On the other hand, a team member who receives an average evaluation of 92% would receive all 60 points for all the team-based assessments. You can see how group evaluation can result in two members of the same team receiving two very different grades.

Participation in the evaluation process is not optional. If you fail to turn in an evaluation for any person on your team at the time that evaluation is due you will receive zero points for that evaluation period.
