Course Description

This course offers an introduction to the research, educational, enterprise, and marketing uses of virtual environments and mobile games. Students will study the successes, failures, and uses of social media gaming, particularly as they relate to marketing, branding, and business. Additionally, students will research ethical and sociological issues associated with gaming, explore virtual worlds and immersive games, and analyze the uses of gaming and virtual reality for a variety of settings and purposes. Each week, students will study real-world examples of major brands using gaming to market their products. Among others, course assignments will include gaming practice, experiments, and written reactions.

Note

This is not a “videogames” course. We will undertake careful, systematic analysis of gaming in the communications field. An aficionado of videogames will have no advantage in this course over a student who has zero experience with gaming.

Course Objectives

By the end of this course students will:

- Study current marketing strategies using gaming, virtual reality, and virtual worlds
- Create educational and professional marketing strategies using gaming, virtual reality, and virtual worlds, designed to influence behavior
- Discuss the strengths and weaknesses of gaming, virtual reality, and virtual worlds in the marketing and business world
- Understand how to utilize gaming to fuel marketing campaigns, reach new demographics, and raise brand awareness

Requirements

Students should have a working knowledge of interactive digital media and gaming and a computer with Java and Flash enabled in their Internet browser.

Students should have a mobile device with access to the App Store or Google Play to download games that will be used as part of class assignments and discussions.

Required Reading

There is no required textbook for this course. Instead, readings will be assigned throughout the semester. Readings for the course include texts in digital media theory and criticism, scholarly works in gaming, social media, and human-computer interaction. The readings will provide in-depth analysis of communications and gaming. Students will explore mobile gaming, social media-based games, and computer-based massively multi-player online role-playing games (MMPORG), and then share their experiences through blogs and discussions.

Course Policies

The course is comprised of lectures, online discussions, required reading and videos, class activities performed through gaming, and a final project. Students are expected to watch all recorded lectures and contribute to the class blog and discussions for their course participation requirement.

Policy on Late Work and Participation

There will be penalties for late work:

Lecture Post Description and Grading Scale

The instructor will post a lecture video to Canvas each week of the semester. These videos will vary in length depending on the material but will include questions posed to the class throughout the videos. It is your responsibility to watch each of the videos in their entirety and provide a reaction. Although it is possible to watch the videos at any time and at any pace, keeping up with the videos week to week according to the schedule will be easier as many build off the other along with the weekly readings.

You are expected to provide a 250 – 500 word response to each lecture video. Your reactions are not summaries of the material presented, but actual reactions to the lecture discussion. You may discuss areas not mentioned during the lecture that relate to the discussion, or discuss topics not included in the lecture. The most important part is to respond and react to any questions posed in the lecture by the instructor. The response should not just be to the material included in the video, but also to any and all questions posed during the lecture by the professor.

Lecture reaction posts are awarded points of 0 -100 according to levels of completion:

- 100 points: Completed task fully and by the due date according to the schedule. Reaction meets word requirement and provides an actual reaction to the lecture and not a summary. Additionally, answers all the questions posed by the instructor during the lecture.
- 90 points: Reaction post made by the due date according to the schedule. Reaction DOES NOT meet word requirement, but provides an actual reaction to the lecture and not a summary, and answers all the questions posed by the instructor during the lecture.
- 75 points: Reaction post made by the due date according to the schedule. Reaction DOES NOT meet word requirement and DOES NOT provide an actual reaction to the lecture and instead is a summary, but answers all the questions posed by the instructor during the lecture.
- 50 points: Reaction post made by the due date according to the schedule. Reaction DOES NOT meet word requirement, DOES NOT provide an actual reaction to the lecture and instead is a summary, and DOES NOT answer the questions posed by the instructor during the lecture.
- 0 points: No reaction post made.

Weekly Reading Discussion Post

You are expected to write a weekly Canvas discussion post (approx. 250-500 words) based on the readings assigned each week. Additionally, some weeks will include Activities, which include viewing short (3 minute) videos about brands using mobile gaming. Students will watch these videos each week to get ideas for their final projects and assignments. You should reference these videos in your weekly discussion post.

Posts are due by 11:59 PM EST each Monday throughout the term of the week the readings are assigned.

Discussion posts should not only provide a short summary of the readings, but your analysis or insight, and reference any experience you have with the topic. It may be best to reference each reading in your reaction so it is clear when you are discussing them.

You will also need to include two questions based on the reading/videos. Your questions should explore deeper into the topic than the readings and videos alone, and provoke thoughtful responses and insight from your classmates. These questions will also be used to provide classmates ideas for comments they may answer in response to your post. Please follow appropriate netiquette rules. Your posts should discuss ALL the readings and videos assigned to demonstrate you have completed the assigned work.

Your classmates will comment on your discussion post and you will comment on theirs to you. You are required to comment on at least 3 students' posts. For full credit, you are expected to respond to every comment made on your own post.

Your comments are due by Fridays at 11:59 PM EST. You should provide all responses to fellow students' comments by 11:59 PM EST on the Sunday of the week assigned.

Weekly discussion reading posts are awarded points of 0 -100 according to levels of completion:

- 100 points: Completed task fully and on time and demonstrates an understanding of the reading and not simply a summary of what was read. It is your job to take the information and apply it to a real-world situation. Should cover all the readings assigned and pose at least two questions to classmates, and respond to their posts in reaction to what you have written.
- 90 points: No questions were posed to your classmates, but otherwise satisfied the objectives of the assignment OR questions were posed, but your responses to your classmates' posts were not made.
- 85 points: Not all the readings were covered in your post, but otherwise satisfied the objectives of the assignment.

- 75 points: Post did not fulfill word requirements (250-500 words) or merely summarized the readings but did not advance the material.
- 50 points: Post was posted late and did not demonstrate any evaluation of the readings OR post did not include at least two questions AND did not cover all the readings.
- 0 points: No post listed.

Weekly Reading Reactions Comments

Each week you will comment on 3 reading discussion posts by fellow students. Comments must add something of value to the conversation thread (be thought provoking). You are required to respond to every comment on your own post. You will only receive full credit if you respond to all comments on your post.

You should provide all responses to their comments by 11:59 PM EST on the Sunday of the week assigned.

Weekly reading reaction comments are awarded points of 0 -100 according to levels of completion:

- 100 points: Completed task fully and on time of three posts on other student's discussion post that add substance to the discussion.
- 66 points: Two completed comments on other student's discussion post that add substance to the discussion.
- 33 points: One completed comment on other student's discussion post that add substance to the discussion.
- 0 points: No comments posted or the comments posted do not add to the discussion.

Gaming Assignments

Students will complete 6 gaming experiments assigned throughout the semester. Not each week will have an assignment. It is the student's responsibility to know which week an assignment is due. Each assignment will help the student explore and further understand the subject discussed that week. Each student will post a 250 – 500 word thought paper to Canvas explaining their experience, discoveries, and interactions as well as explain how their brand could use that type of game for marketing or other purposes.

The assignments are for students to practice with social media gaming and virtual worlds and to use the material learned from weekly readings and lectures. Most importantly, students can see how gaming applies to marketing in the real-world.

Your assignment thought paper is due Sundays at 11:59 pm EST the week assigned. You must submit your assignment through the Assignment tab in Canvas.

Grading For Assignments

Assignments are awarded points according to levels of completion:

- 100 points: Briefly covered assignment for the week, thorough analysis, majority of writing is your reaction to the assignment.
- 90 points: Briefly covered assignment for the week, slight reaction to assignment; not enough analysis.
- 85 points: Briefly covered assignment for the week, majority of writing is your reaction to the assignment, but DID NOT meet word length.
- 75 points: Barely covered assignment for the week, majority of writing is your reaction to the assignment, and DID NOT meet word length.
- 65 points: Majority of post does not provide analysis of assignment; writing went off topic and DID NOT meet word length.
- 50 points: Majority of post does not provide analysis of assignment and DID NOT meet word length.
- 0 points: Did not complete assignment.

Final Project

Students will prepare a final pitch proposing their plans for integrating TWO of the following into a brand's marketing strategy: virtual reality, gaming, or virtual worlds. The minimum requirement is two, but you may include all three in your strategy if you feel it's appropriate. Students may use their own organization's brand or create a marketing plan for another brand of their choice. Students must submit their topics by the 6th week of classes.

In their pitch, students should discuss in 2-5 pages:

- How virtual reality, gaming and/or virtual worlds add to their brand's marketing plan. This should include references to successful campaigns.
- The type of technology (mobile, Facebook game, virtual reality, Second Life or another virtual world, etc.), marketing and promotional strategy and how the business/brand will use brand messaging throughout the game to market their brand.

The marketing plan (10 pages minimum) will include:

- Targeting and positioning
- PR plan
- Marketing key message and game description writing
- Pre-launch marketing plan
- User Acquisition plan
- Launch and post-launch marketing plan
- User Retention plan

During the last week of classes, students will record a presentation of their pitch for the instructor. Final dates and specifics will be provided on the course site in Canvas.

University Policy on Academic Misconduct:

Academic honesty and integrity are fundamental values of the University community. Students should be sure that they understand the UF Student Honor Code at <http://www.dso.ufl.edu/students.php>.

The University of Florida Honor Code was voted on and passed by the Student Body in the Fall 1995 semester. The Honor Code reads as follows:

Preamble: In adopting this Honor Code, the students of the University of Florida recognize that academic honesty and integrity are fundamental values of the University community. Students who enroll at the University commit to holding themselves and their peers to the high standard of honor required by the Honor Code. Any individual who becomes aware of a violation of the Honor Code is bound by honor to take corrective action. A student-run Honor Court and faculty support are crucial to the success of the Honor Code. The quality of a University of Florida education is dependent upon the community acceptance and enforcement of the Honor Code.

The Honor Code: "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity."

On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied:

"On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment."
